National Honors Bestowed on Local Construction Company

Denver, CO -- August 31, 2005 -- dcb Construction Company, Inc., a locally owned and operated construction company since 1960, has won a national Metal Building Contractors & Erectors Association (MBCEA) "Winner of Excellence" award in the education category for Lutheran High School of the Rockies, located in Parker, Colorado. Winners will be introduced and their buildings displayed during an awards banquet on September 17, 2005 during the MBCEA Conference in Baltimore, Maryland. This annual award is given in recognition for outstanding efforts in creating one of the best building systems of the year in a series of end-user categories.

MBCEA was formed in 1968 to serve the needs and support the interests of metal building contractors and erectors. The coordination of educational and training programs for the contractor and erector segments of the industry is their primary focus. The association conducts an annual "Building of the Year Awards Program", provides a Code of Business Conduct, an Erector Resource Center, newsletter, and supports members at the grassroots level via a web site program and local chapters.

A Colorado builder since 1960, dcb Construction Company, Inc. began concentrating on design-build projects from its inception and today is ranked one of Colorado's premier top ten design-build firms by Colorado Construction Magazine, 2005. dcb is currently celebrating its 45th anniversary of providing design-build construction services throughout the state of Colorado.
