Local Construction Company Awarded Contract for Market Expansion

Denver, CO – April 25, 2005 -- dcb Construction Company, Inc., a locally owned and operated construction company since 1960, has been selected by Ferguson Enterprises, Inc. to design and build a 60,000 square foot plumbing supply and distribution facility to be located at 17655 E. 25th Drive in Aurora, Colorado. Construction begins immediately with a completion date of October, 2005. Ferguson's new design-build facility is a pre-engineered metal building supplied by Butler Manufacturing, the leader in systems construction since 1880.

Ferguson, a plumbing wholesale distributor headquartered in Newport News, Virginia, with annual sales in excess of 6 billion, is ranked by trade publications as the nation's largest distributor of plumbing supplies and pipe, valves, and fittings and is the third largest distributor for heating and cooling equipment. Founded in 1953 with two locations, Ferguson today has a coast-to-coast service distribution network spanning 948 service centers located in 50 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and Mexico. In 1982, British distribution giant Wolseley plc, acquired Ferguson, supplying the financial strength for their rapid territorial growth and aggressive expansion into the industrial, heating and cooling, and waterworks markets. Wolseley is the world's largest distributor of heating and plumbing products and is a leading supplier of building materials to the professional market.

A Colorado builder since the early 1960's and generating over $30 million in revenue annually, dcb Construction Company, Inc. began concentrating on design-build projects from its inception and today is ranked one of Colorado's premiere top ten design-build firms by Colorado Construction Magazine, 2004. dcb is currently celebrating its 45th anniversary of providing design-build construction services throughout the state of Colorado.
